DETROIT - CLEVELAND - PITTSBURGH

The Flourishing Art, Architecture & Great Museums in Detroit, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh, with a visit to Fallingwater

This unique six-night travel program focuses on three important U.S. cities:

Detroit, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh—where artists, activists, and entrepreneurs have created opportunity in adversity and helped revitalize their cities into must-see hubs for public and fine art enthusiasts.

For most of the 20th-century, Detroit was our nation's economic engine of progress and experimentation. This heritage is reflected in the treasure trove of early 20th-century mansions, Art Deco skyscrapers, and mid-century masterpieces that define the cityscape. Despite its struggles in the 21st century, the city is currently experiencing a culture-fueled rebirth. Journalists tout Detroit as a haven for young artists and UNESCO designated Detroit as the first "City of Design" in the United States. No trip to Detroit would be complete without a visit to the Detroit Institute of Arts, one of the top six comprehensive art museums in the United States.

Visit world-class museums, local artist and craft studios, and private homes.

Artists are also making their mark on a changing Cleveland. With inexpensive and large urban studio spaces readily available, Cleveland is a magnet for artists being driven out of cities like New York, Los Angeles, or Chicago by expensive rents. The city boasts one of the nation's most concentrated neighborhoods of world-class cultural institutions, called University Circle, or "the Circle" by locals. Within a 550-acre area lies the Cleveland Museum of Art, Cleveland Botanical Garden, Museum of Contemporary Art, Cleveland Orchestra, Cleveland Institute of Art, Cleveland Cinematheque, and Cleveland Institute of Music.

The week concludes in Pittsburgh—an icon of 21st-century "Rust Belt" urban success. Pittsburgh was the unquestioned steel capital of the world for most of the 20th century, and the resulting wealth produced a cultural heritage with impressive architecture from the late 1800s and early 1900s still surviving. Andrew Carnegie's iconic libraries and grandiose museums, the home and art collection of his business partner Henry Clay Frick, and Frank Lloyd Wright's iconic Fallingwater jockey for attention against more modern and contemporary cultural venues like the Andy Warhol Museum and the Mattress Factory, home to light-bending pieces by James Turrell and Yayoi Kusama.
