

Reimagine a Museum

Tell a new story! Many art museums are organized by culture or time period, presenting a fairly linear narrative. However, the world doesn't work in isolation. Cultures have interacted throughout history and people all over time and place share the human experience. What if you could design a new art museum that could present a different story by combining works of art from different places, cultures, and time periods? Using at least four works of art from the VMFA collection, design your installation based on a common theme.

Write a one paragraph or longer proposal that includes:

- Explanation of your theme
- Your chosen works of art and an explanation of how each work of art connects to your overall theme
- What questions would this exhibit raise?
- What dialogue might it create?
- Who would be your target audience?
